The overshadowing matter of gossip in was quoted early in the day as denying the story in Chicago, but the denial was Chicago Grain and Provision Market. generally considered only a "technica one for policy's sake. It is thought that the announcement of the deal may have come out earlier than desired by the i of the plan may not come for two or three months yet; but that is the most that the Street is willing to admit. Under the May stimulus of short covering and commis sion orders, based on the deal story, the market opened strong and active this morning. Soon after there was some recession, but before noon the advance began again. The talk of the bank statement is all hopeful. Two or three good earnings reports were received this morning. The Baltimore and Ohio for September shows an increase in net carnings of $192,690, and for July 1 an increase of $1,93,964. The Reading annual statement was not especially good, but the period overed included the coal strike, and it should be remembered also that the effects of the recent advance in coal rates were not felt in the earnings up to July 1, the period of the report. The Government crop report had no effect on the market.

Southern Railway, common and preferred, both advanced. There is talk of a deal for the Southern in the near future also, but as to this nothing in the least definite can be learned, and it is probable that the gossip is premature.

The other Granger and Pacific securities were quite as buoyant as those im-mediately connected with the Burlington deal. St. Paul and Union Pacific were nong the features of the morning. It not the least unlikely that there will be more positive gossip regarding a deal between these lines in the near future. Such a combination concern as that proposed by the Morgan-Hill party would be most likely to stimulate plans for a similar deal among the Harriman-Standard Oil properties. St. Paul was well above 161 before noon and Union Pacific nearly to 99. Rock Island had a spurt of two points shortly before noon.

The northern march of improvements has had a most beneficial effect upon country property. There is a desire among home-builders to go beyond the District line, where building regulations will not hamper them in the carrying out of unique construction ideas. In Montgomery county, Md., outside of subdivisions, no restrictions are imposed.

The new gatehouse at the distributing reservoir is an ornamental structure. It is a series of towers, and from a distance resembles an old castle. The widening of the main approaches to the Methodist University buildings will greatly enhance the attractiveness of the section for building purposes.

According to the statement of a conservative real estate man, private expenditures in realty in the section west of Rock Creek and north of Tenleytown will aggregate $2.00,000. The projected university buildings will cost over $250,000. Met. R. R. Cert. Indebtedness A. 103

A boy who was engaged in drawing gasolene from a tank accidentally dropped a lighted match into the liquid. The explosion followed, and it is regarded as most miraculous that the lad was not seriously hurt. His injuries, however, were slight.

Four engines and two trucks responded to an alarm and by hard work the flames were prevented from spreading to other property. Premises 129 were occupied by W. H. Coon as a paper store and residence.
